I have the same problem, except my printer is a 3100cn. The print on the right third of each page is faded. After calling Dell they tell me I need a P4872. But after talking with the parts sales department they said they don't have any. After searching I found the parts on eBay and another site, both claiming to be genuine Dell parts.

I have a Dell 3000cn Laser printer. I have had a streaking problem exactly like the one many people have written about on this forum. I saw that somebody posted test pages of each of the colors with the exact streaks that I have. From all that I read it seems that Dell knows there is a problem with the drums manufactured for this printer model.
