There was some "nasty litigation" concerning the Powerline 856 and 880 models a few years ago, but I recall that the guns were not found to be the cause of the accidents. This would have been about the time of the discontinuation of the 856, so it may have influenced the decision to end production.

Hello everyone. I still have my first air riffle, BB gun and it is the Daisy Powerline 856. It shoots BBs and lead pellets. It is an air riffle in which you have to pump up each time to shoot. The gun will not pump up and you can hear air leaking from the barrel and from the plunger area under the gun.
